MANUPACTURES INSURRECTION PIKES .- Some cute speculators at Harper's Ferry have been turning the old Brown excitement to account by manufacturing bogus "Ossawatomie" pikes and selling them at a big price to passengers by the cars. The railroad company finally put an end to this speculation, which was be-coming an annoyance to timid passengers, by interdicting the sale, and driving the pike venders off the platform.

A Pair of Precious Scoundrels at Chi-cago—A Revolting Outrage Upon an Unprotected Woman.

A most flagrant outrage was recently com-Host hagrant outrage was recently committed upon an unprotected woman, Marion E. Knox, in Chicago, by two young men who had hitherto sustained respectable reputations, Samuel W. Arnold and Charles V. Cady. At the time of the perpetration of the crime, the former was baggage-master on the Rock Island Railroad, and the latter was engaged with some business house in that city.

Mrs. Knox, after losing her husband and undergoing various misfortunes, arrived with her brother and an infant in Chicago, and stopped at the gate of the Court-house, while her brother entered the building to look for a friend. The Press and Tribune thus relates what afterward occurred:

While standing leaning against the iron railing, Arnold came up and accosted her, asked her several questions, and by her replies ascertained her wants, and then offered to provide supper and lodging for her and her brother. She at first declined, but on his urging her and registring that he was an honest ing her and protesting that he was an honest man, he induced her to accompany him, say-ing to her brother, who in the mean time had returned, unable to find Mr. Foote, that he would come back in a few minutes and also accompany him to the hotel.

Arnold took the poor woman to the Sollitt House, went with her to the parlor, and then to the office and registered himself and Mrs. Knox as "Dr. Brown and lady." After he had done this her was always. Anox as "Dr. Brown and lady." After he had done this, he was shown a room with a bedroom attached. Into this he took his vietim and after conversing with her a few minutes, said he was obliged to go out for a little while, and left her, locking her in the room as he left, and carrying the key with him. She isid her child on the bed, and then laid herself down beside it to get it to sleep. While lying on the bed Arnold returned, came into her room, and by threats and violence accomplished his fiendish purposes. He then left her, and she fell asleep. In about two hours after the occurrence narrated he returned to Mrs. Knox's room with Cady, and white Arnold gagged her and held her down Cady perpetrated the same fiendish act. The villains were held in $5,000 each for appearance at Court. If they are guilty they leserve to be hung.

HOSTILITY AND STRENGTH OF THE INDIANS ON THE FRONTIER .- The St. Joseph Gazette of a late date observes:

We had the pleasure yesterday of a call from Maj. Schoonover, agent of the Upper Missouri Sioux, comprising six nations of that tribe. The number of Indians under the charge of Maj. The nations composing the Northern portion of the powerful Sioux tribe are deeply imbued with a spirit of hostility to the whites and that portion of the tribes further South, whom they regard as having compounded with the pale face to rob them of their lands, and to hasten the extinction of the Indian race. They have sworn vengeance dire against any white man that may be found within their territory, and it is not unlikely this threat will be carried into strict

By this expansive quality the balloon, before sailing, may be inflated to its fullust capacity, regardless of the rarity of the atmosphere in the great eastern or upper current. Mr. Danziger expects to complete his balloon in time for an experimental ascension on the first of next May.

BURLESQUE ON A MODERN NOSTRUM .- The following is a fair burlesque on the patent medicines of the day :

Beware of counterfeits. The shroud having received a portion of the Oil, instantly took root in the floor, and expanded into beautiful cotton-stalks, eached filled with bursting bolls.

PRAYERS ASKED FOR THE POPE.—Dr. Dixon the Roman Catholic Primate of all Ireland. has issued a pastoral letter, in which he affirms that a great act of spoliation is contemplated that a great act of spoliation is contemplated in the way of depriving the Pope of his temporal dominions, and that calumnies of all sorts are heaped upon his Government by enemies who are becoming every day more powerful. At present, by way of remedy for such a condition of things, the Primate only asks for the prayers of the faithful in Ireland, but he hints that it may hereafter be necessary to send subscriptions to the Holy Father to en-able him to support those soldiers that will "defend his rights against rebel hordes."

A GRAVE QUESTION FOR DEBATE .- The Frothville debating society was considering the propriety of purchasing a burial lot, and it was used as an argument in its favor that one of the members had expressed the wish that, when he dies, he might be laid in a lot owned by the society he esteemed so much. "How do you got along with your burial lot?" was asked of one who was inimical to the purchase. "Oh, it's all settled," was the reply; "it is to be purchased, but the man who agreed to be buried in it has backed out." in it has backed out."

A MOUSE IN A LOAF OF BREAD .- In cutting A MOUSE IN A LOAF OF BREAD.—In cutting a four-pound loaf of bread in a farmer's family, at Barnwell, England, a small orifice was observed, and on being followed up to the center of the loaf, a mouse's nest was discovered, snugly and warmly constructed of a leaf of a copy-book, torn into shreds, on which reposed nine young mice. What makes it more singular is, that the loaf was baked only on the preceding day.

MURDER IN EVANSVILLE, IND .- Two river men quarrelled in Evansville, Ind., on Mon-day last, when one of them stabbed the other with a large pocket knife and made off down the road, on which the other fell and died in about three minutes. The murderer was pur-sued and arrested two or three miles below the city and lodged in jail.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE IN IRELAND .- John B. He visited some of the provinces, and in Belfast alone succeeded in obtaining 5,000 signers to

INCIDENT OF THE REVOLUTION-LAPATETTE AND THE FIFER-SOLDIER.—In the war of the Revolution, when General Lafayette commanded in the American army, a part of the troops were encamped at a certain place near the water's edge. One calm summer's eventhe waters edge. One caim summers even-ing, a soldier, who was a fifer in one of the companies, went into the water for the pur-pose of bathing. Being an excellent swim-mer, as well as fifer, he took his fife with him to the water, and engaged in ffing and swimming at the same time suit of the man, who had thus disobeyed the order of the camp.

The soldier was a native of Connecticut, and a man of truth. When arrested by the officer, and on the way to the General's tent, he thought within himself, that, perhaps he might escape a severe punishment by denying the deed. On a few moment's reflection, however, he said to himself, "I have always spoken the truth—I cannot tell a lie." With this principle in his mind, he came into the presence of the General, who asked him if he was the individual who played upon the evening previous, to which he replied—"I am."

"And do you know," continued Lafayette, "of any others in the army who can play the same tune?"

A GIFTED BUT UNFORTUNATE POET .- The biographer of James Clarence Mangan, an Irish poet, of fine talent but unfortunate habits, thus speaks of the bard: And now it almost repents me that I undertook to narrate the events of this man's outer and visible life, even to gratify the natural interest which his loving, worshiping readers can not but feel in all that concerns him—an interest, however, which is deeper and higher than mere curiosity. No purer and more benignant spirit ever alighted upon earth—no more abandoned wretch ever found earth a purgatory and a hell. There were, as I have said, two Man-gans: one well-known to the Muses, the other to the police; one seared through the empyr-ian and sought the stars—the other lay too often in gutters of Peter and Bride-streets. have read the lives and sufferings of Edgar A. Poe and of Richard Savage. Neither was so consummate a poet, neither so miserable a mortal. Yet in one respect poor Mangan compares favorably with them both; he had no malignity, sought no revenge, never wrought sorrow and suffering to any human being but himself. In his deadly struggle with the cold world he wore no defiant air and attitude: was always humble, affectionand and attitude; was always humble, affection-ate, almost prayerful. He was never of the "Satanic school," never devoted mankind to the infernal gods, nor cursed the sun; but the ery of his spirit was ever, "Miserable man that I am, who will deliver me from the wrath to

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER IN MICHIGAN-A HUSBAND SHOOTS THE BETRAYOR OF HIS Honoa.—In Port Huron, Mich., resides a man and his wife named McGes, and another man— Dr. Frennel. For some time McGee had been absent from the city; but having returned a few days ago, the demon of jealonsy whis pered to him that Mrs. MeGee had proved false to her vows, and that Dr. Frennel had tempted her. In order to test the truth of these rumors, he announced to his wife on Monday night that he had business which would take him to Detroit for a short time. Instead, however, of trusting her so far from his protecting care again, he ensconsed himself under her bed, armed with a revelver loaded to the very muzzle with powder and balls, and there awaited the development of events. He had not long to wait, for his wife soon made her appearance, followed by the treacherous Doctor. McGee did not wait for any further evidence of his wife's frailty or the Doctor's weakness, but taking deliberate aim from his secure retreat, discharged the whole contents of his murderous weapon into the seducer's legs, as he was standing in "loving dalliance" with Mrs. McGec. His aim proved good, excited as he was, the bullets bringing the Doctor to her feet, with one thigh-bone broken and three or four other bullets in the lower part of his body. bullets in the lower part of his body.

A WAGER ABOUT AGE ADROITLY DECIDED .-Old Mr. Russell was once fairly caught in his own trap. He is better known as Major Ben Russell, and being met by his old friend Busby, he was familiarly saluted with a hearty shake of the hand. "How do you do, old Ben Russell?" "Come, now," said Major Ben, "I'll not take that from you—not a bit of Ben, "I'll not take that from you—not a bit of it. You are as old as I am this minute."
"Upon my word," says Mr. Busby, "you are my senior by at least ton years." "Not at all, friend Busby, and, if you please, we will determine that question very soon. Just tell me what is the first thing you recollect?"
"Well, the first thing I recollect," said Mr. Busby, "was hearing people say, "There goes old Ben Russell, he ought to have died fifty years ago.""

RECEPTION OF THE RUSSIAN EMPEROR .- The Odessa Journal gives a long account of the re-joicing at Odessa on the occasion of the Emperor of Russia's recent visit to that city. His Majesty reached the city about two in the morning, and, notwithstanding the hour, was welcomed by an immense crowd of all classes of the population. At ten the same morning, his Majesty received the representatives of the nobility, with the military and civil authorities. In reply to the Marshals of the nobility of the governments of Odessa and Traspol, his Majesty said: "I thank you, gentlemen, for your efforts in the accomplishment of our com-mon work, (the abolition of serfdom,) and I hope with the divine aid to attain the desired

DOUBTFUL CONSOLATION .- Not long ago a bridegroom, returning from his wedding, was met by a friend, who thus addressed him: "Well, Jack, I'm glad to see thee in thy happy position, thou'st seen the end of thy trouble now." "Thank thee, lad," was Jack's an-swer, "I hope I have." About a month af-terward the two friends met again, when Jack, speaking rather warmly, exclaimed, "Bill, thou telled me a lie that morning I got wed! Didn't thou say I'd seen th'end of my trouble?" "I did," said Bill; "but I didn't tell thee which end."

Tus Magyans.—A letter from Pesth in the of the Magyars are more strongly manifested every day. Some time back a number of students of this city petitioned that the Hungarian language should alone be used in teaching in the University of Pesth. Several scandalous scenes have just taken place in the lecture rooms of the University—the professors who give their lessons in German having been hooted and obliged to retire.

Butler, a neighbor of Mr. Jacobs. Upon scarching them, it was discovered that they were armed with long knives made of old scythe blades. They had secured the horses of their masters, and upon being interrogated, confessed that they had been induced by a white man to leave their masters and join in an attempt to be made somewhere in Virginia to liberate slaves. Their destination, no doubt, was Harper's Ferry.

ADAMS & PECKOVER Inventors, Proprietors & Manufacturers, NOVELTY IRON FOUNDERY.

333 FOURTH-ST., NEAR SMITH, CIN., O.

We beg leave, most respectfully, to offer the following certificates and references of families using the Alligator, which will, at a glance, remove all doubts of its intrinsic merits:

For some months I have been using the Alligator Coal Cooking Stove. It is superior cooking qualities, combined with its cleanliness, musteventually secure to the owners a large share of public patronage.

I have been using one of Messra Adams & Pockover's Alligator Cook Stoves for some months, which gives entire satisfaction in every respect, and can cheerfully recommend it to those who are in want of a superior cook stove.

H. H. LEAVITT.

For the last year I have been using the Alligator Coal Cooking Stove, manufactured by Messra. Adams & Peckover, which I consider a superior stove, and gives the utmost satisfaction. It is the only stove I have found that cooks perfectly with coal.

For some time past I have been using one of Messra. Adams & Peckover's Alligator Coal Cooking Stoves, and can recommend them as being a superior stove, giving entire satisfaction in every respect.

I cheerfully indorse the above.

vincial beaver hat, and surmounting largely-boned limbs, cased in the rural style of a gen-tleman-farmer paying his regular visit to an agricultural fair—such, as near as we can give it, is the outer man of Thurlow Weed, beyond it, is the outer man of Thurlow Weed, beyond all comparison the first unofficial public man in the United States. Pressing forward under a high condensation of vital incentives, his face is lighted up with inexhaustible energies of purpose, and his whole body is thrown forward as if to overtake and seize the object which he is mentally pursuing, and evidently prepared to make it succumb. He is an inveterate smoker, and frequently uses his cigar between his fingers, suiting the action to the word, while he unfolds his view." THE SUBSCRIBER IS NOW RECEIVING daily, per Express, his spiendid Oysters.
Having completed arrangements in Baltimore, on the most extensive scale, I will at all times during the season be prepared to furnish my friends, "and the rest of mankind," with the most DELICIOUS
